"To be known is to be seen as a unique individual and appreciated for all of who you are."

Dr. Erik Carter & Dr. Elizabeth Biggs

What Matters Most: Preparing Your Students with Disabilities for Adulthood

This session is all about how to cultivate belonging. In partnership with a volunteer production crew at Maranatha High School, led by Dr. Joe Chai and Chaim Diesto, four of our Club 21 community members were given the opportunity to participate in this Self- Portrait Project to show others who they are in the form of carefully crafted video interviews. Join us as we discuss the inspiration for this project and learn more about how this project impacted all involved. We will close this session with a discussion on how you can cultivate belonging in school and the community.
