

Dr. Khalilah Johnson

10:15 - 11:30AM

Conversation on Disability Justice

Join Dr. Khalilah Johnson for a dynamic session where history meets strategic discussion, equipping participants for impactful advocacy spanning the disability community. This interactive session begins by historicizing disability rights and the need to move toward disability justice, creating a space for meaningful discussions on pivotal topics and sharpening your abilities to advocate for change. This session is tailored for individuals with lived experience, their families, community caregivers, and professionals keen on engaging with and learning from those directly impacted by structural challenges. Learn how you can be part of a movement for systemic transformation and become an active participant in shaping communities where inclusivity and responsiveness are not just ideals but realities for people living with disabilities.

Khalilah R. Johnson, PhD, MS, OTR/L, FAOTA (she/her/hers) is an Assistant Professor of Occupational Science and Occupational Therapy in the Department of Health Sciences at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. She is also owner and operator of #SlayingAcademia™, LLC and co-host of Dr. thOTs Podcast. Dr. Johnson holds a Bachelor of Science and Master of Science degrees in occupational therapy from Brenau University Women's College and a Doctor of Philosophy in occupational science from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

