Tools for the Journey

February 28, 2026

Savanna Flakes

I'm a Possibilitarian! What's Your Superpower?

Everything is "Possible" with Inclusion! Savanna provides a road map on why inclusive practitioners are really superheroes in disguise. Inclusive teachers use evidence-based strategies, collaborate with intentionality to increase access to the curriculum, and differentiate instruction to increase social and academic achievement for ALL students. This interactive plenary will answer two fundamental questions – How can we remove barriers to increase access to academic content? How can we add more differentiation to engage learners? Providing meaningful learning experiences that support and challenge ALL students is truly our super strength!

Savanna Flakes is an award-winning, international inclusion consultant whose mission is to ignite fires within others to create sustainable change on topics such as Inclusion and Equity, Dynamic Collaboration, and Shaking Up Special Education. Savanna is the founder and CEO of Inclusion For a Better Future and partners with school communities around the world to share effective instructional practices for students with exceptionalities. Savanna has served as a Professor at American University, training teachers on best practices to reach and teach all students with special needs. Her prior instructional leadership roles include Administrator, Manager of Professional Learning, Technology and Inclusion Instructional Specialist, coaching administrators and teachers on education technology tools and evidence-based practices to engage ALL students and provide meaningful access to rigorous curriculum.
